X—Ineligible to vote

E—Early voted

F—Early voted by provisional ballot (ballot was accepted) May be Restricted

<blank>—Not registered at the time of the election or information not available

Note: In elections prior to 2006, the codes B and P were not used. B was included in Y and P was included in N. Early voting began in 2004; the first election in which you will see the code E is the 2004 General Election.

The codes F and Z were introduced in early 2010 to represent provisional ballots marked at early voting sites and the polls, respectively, which were later accepted. Prior to implementation of these two codes, accepted provisional ballots were included in codes Y (for provisional ballots at the polls) and E (provisional ballots at early voting).
